Structure

Morning classes take place from Monday to Friday (three hours each morning) and have an interdisciplinary and comparative nature, focusing on Italian and European elements.

Students will be provided in advance with class materials in pdf as well as with the bibliography regarding class topics.

AFTERNOON SEMINARS will have a formative and specialized character, deepening an aspect linked to the morning lesson, with particular attention, but not exclusive to Gabriele d'Annunzio; seminars will also have a laboratory structure by means of the Vittoriale's documentary resources (libraries, archive of the manuscripts, etc.).

During the seminars, students will have an active role; they will have to elaborate presentations in oral and / or written form (the latter previously sent to the School secretary) under the supervision of a tutor.

Summer School Participants

Summer School courses, considered as linguistic and cultural study, are aimed at M.A. University Students, Italian and foreign Ph.D. Students, early post-doc researchers, as well as secondary school teachers interested in training and updating.

The knowledge levels for the Italian language: C1.

A linguistic training is planned to prepare the C2 certificate of the European framework; the course is authorized to issue this certification. At the end of the course a certificate of attendance is issued.

Course duration

The course lasts one week. On Saturday 13 and Sunday 14 excursions to cultural and tourist places on Garda Lake and to Venice are organized.
